

NIGERIA'S EDUCATION SYSTEM REQUIRES HOLISTIC APPROACH, SAYS VC BUK

By Salisu Inusa Isma'il

Scholars from across the country converged at the Convocation Arena as the Faculty of Education, Bayero University Kano hosted the conference of the Committee of Deans of Education in Nigerian universities for the 2023 and Annual General Meeting, which took place on Monday 6th November, 2023 with the theme “Funding Tertiary Education in a Depressed Economy: Issues, Challenges and the Way Forward”.

Speaking during the opening session, the Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas, said that this year's conference brought people from all walks of life to discuss issues bothering the country, especially tertiary institutions and proffer solutions that would be used by government and other stakeholders in resolving issues affecting the education sector.

system, in general, and universities, in particular, as it produced skilled workforce.

He also extended his appreciation to the Vice Chancellor, Prof. Abbas, for providing an enabling environment for the Deans across both federal and state universities to discuss this all-important topic.

Speaking, the Chairman of the occasion and former Minister of Education, Professor Ruqayyatu Ahmad Rufa'i, pointed out that tertiary education must be funded sustainably in order to play its competitive role in the global space.

She expressed optimism that at the end of the conference scholars would come up with collection of ideas for a better funding system of tertiary institutions in Nigeria.

Conference participants reciting the National Anthem

While describing the theme of the conference as apt and timely at this turning point, Prof. Abbas, argued that addressing the present day challenges of our education system requires a holistic approach, emphasizing the need to look into this critically with a view to addressing the negative drift currently impacting our national circle.

While congratulating the Faculty for hosting yet other conference for the second time 17 years after, Prof. Abbas also used the medium to welcome all the participants and wished them fruitful discussions.

In his welcome remarks, the Chairman, Committee of Deans of Nigerian Universities, Professor Bayero I. Haladu, said that the committee organized the conference on an annual basis to discuss issues bothering the education

On his part, the keynote speaker, Professor Abdurashid Garba, who was represented by Professor Ahmed Iliyasu, emphasized that for any country to develop its education sector, it must be in a good shape for which university-based unions had been fighting for many years.

He enumerated some challenges facing tertiary education to include budget constraints, proliferation of universities and politicization, among others. On the way forward, the scholar advocated for the prioritization of the education, the establishment of an endowment fund, reviving the culture of digital learning and genuine reforms in the sector.

While presenting the lead paper, the Vice Chancellor of Al-Istiqama University, Sumaila, Prof. Salisu Shehu lamented that for the past two decades, Nigeria had allocated less than 10% of its annual budget to education, which was supposed to be a right in any civilized country, adding that it was sad nowadays that there was no meeting point between the children of the haves and have-nots in terms of the quality of the education they received because of poor funding. "Education is an existential need as the primary and central factor that initiates and ignites development," he added.

He offered suggestions on the way forward to include putting education first, the diversification of sources of funding, collaborations and partnerships and endowments, among others.

Earlier, in his welcome address, the Dean, Faculty of Education, Dr. Ali Idris, appreciated all the invited guests and participants for their presence and wished them successful deliberations and hoped that the conference would provide a platform for finding workable solutions to the challenges facing the tertiary education sector.

Other dignitaries at the conference were Deputy Vice Chancellor Academics, Prof. Sani Muhammad Gumel, Deputy Vice Chancellor Management Services, Prof. Mahmoud Umar Sani, the University Librarian, Dr. Kabir Dahiru Abbas, Hon. Tajuddeen Gambo, Prof. Yahya Bunkure, Prof. Hassana S. Darma, Dr. Dallami Hayyo and host of other prominent educationists.

Educational Bodies Must Salvage Teaching Profession for Quality, Standards

By Fausat Anike Opayomi

Despite the existence of the Teachers Registration Council of Nigeria, unprofessional teachers still find their ways into the profession, hence the need for all professional bodies in education to do all it can to salvage the situation,

Education (NAE) on Tuesday 7th November, 2023 in his office.

The National President of NAE, Prof. Kabiru Isiaka, who led the delegate, said his team was on a courtesy visit to the Vice Chancellor to say thank you for the supports and warm reception they had received since the beginning of the congress.

He congratulated the Vice Chancellor and his team for all the successes recorded both in education and infrastructural development, which he said had put BUK in the world map.

Responding, the Vice Chancellor, Professor Abbas welcomed all the participants to the University and assured them of his maximum supports throughout their stay.

He urged all professional teachers to do all they could to reposition education in Nigeria. According to him, people who had no business in education are in the forefront of developing education curriculum. He therefore advised NAE as one of the professional bodies in the sector to play a vital role at the national level and design the school curriculum, which he said would go a long way in educational development in Nigeria.

As the project reaches its first year, the Head of Livelihood of WFP, Nigeria Country Office, Abuja, Mio Nozoe, visited Kano and in recognition of key roles of CDA in fostering innovative livelihoods in West and Central Africa, paid a courtesy call to the Centre on Wednesday, 1st November, 2023 in company of CCRDN Programme Manager, Yusuf Usman.

The Director of CDA, Professor Jibrin M. Jibrin, who was represented by the Deputy Director, Research, Dr. Kabir

Mustapha Umar, said the CDA is ready to collaborate with the World Food Programme and CCRDN to address the deepening challenges of unemployment and food insecurity. Dr Umar stated that the CDA is an Africa Centre of Excellence funded by the World Bank and Agence Française de Développement (AFD). He said the Centre runs both short-term demand driven courses and higher degree programmes in Natural Resources Management and Climate Change, Crops and Cropping Systems, Livelihood and Natural Resource Economics and; Livestock Management.

He explained that the CDA has students enrolled from 18 countries around Africa. He further stated that the CDA has wide range of partnerships with both local and international organizations. Dr Umar said the Centre has conducted several researches funded by several donors to address issues bedeviling the Drylands.

Dr Murtala Muhammad Badamasi explained that CDA has established Research, Innovation and Technology Hub (RITEH) to accelerate the development of youth and women with the aim of improving their skills and assisting them to turn their brilliant ideas into business and profitable ventures that will make them self-reliant.

Dr Badamasi told the visitors that CDA has competent and highly skilled personnel that could train youth and women, citing many instances in which the Centre organized capacity building trainings to many of them in some countries in Africa and Nigeria.

The CCRDN would collaborate with the CDA in developing capacity building short courses on value-chain due to the Centre's technical capacity to reach the WFP target of developing employment opportunities for 200,000 people of which 60 % will be females.

In line with this development, CDA and CCDRN would sign a memorandum of understanding that would facilitate the implementation of CCRDN set targets from November to January 2024.

SUG Installs Solar Power at Students' Reading Areas, Executes Developmental Projects

By Nura Garba

Barely thirty days since assumption of office, the President of the Students Union Government (SUG) has installed solar power system at the students' reading areas across the University campuses. This formed part of the developmental projects executed.

The reading areas affected are Kitchen Conversion and FAIS Theatre A21 at New Campus and SCE reading room at Old Campus. This was done to improve the welfare of students as they are now writing their first examination.

According to the SUG President, Comrade Sadauki, thirty days in office have been a blessing as the union had executed many other developmental projects to further
