Incessant Varsity Strike: We Must End the Impasse now ...Oba of Benin

By Lamara Garba & Rabi'u M. Sagir

The Oba of Benin, His Royal Majesty, Omo 'N' Oba 'N' Edo Uku Akpolokpolo, Oba Ewuare II, has expressed grave concern over the incessant strike action by university-based unions, saying all hands must be on deck to resolve the impasse for stability and growth.

He suggested that in particular, the traditional rulers in the country as well as other stakeholders must come together to form a common front in order to find an amicable way of resolving the impasse once and for all.

He spoke in Kano on Monday, 6th February, 2023 when he visited the Emir of Kano, Alhaji Aminu Ado Bayero in his Palace, explaining that undoubtedly, lingering strike may adversely affect the quality and standards of our educational system and in return retard national growth.

According to him unless urgent action is taken against the ugly trend, it would greatly lead to brain drain within the system and thus, it will not augur well for our country that is yearning for development.

“Education is the bedrock of development. Any nation or society that negates the sector to the background, certainly, it will be heading for a doom,” The Oba lamented.

Oba Ewuare II, who was visibly disturbed, regretted that these lingering strikes by the respective unions which had been disrupting the thinking faculty of our teeming youths, should be seriously looked into by all and sundry, “and the time to act is now,” he declared.

“The impasse between the government and the university-based unions is not healthy for our great nation. We appeal to both sides to please find equilibrium so as to agree and resolve all issues once and for all,” he advised.

The Royal Majesty said as fathers of the land, they will do all it takes to bring the two sides with a view to finding lasting solution to the impasse.

On his role as Chancellor of Bayero University, the Oba commended President Muhammadu Buhari for finding him worthy to lead this great citadel of learning in which he promised to bring his exposure and networking both from within and outside the country to bear in the development of the university.

He equally described his visit to Kano as a home coming, as his late parents and grandparents all happily lived in Kano and could fluently speak Hausa language. The Oba commended the management of Bayero University for the warm reception and hospitality extended to him since his arrival.

Responding, the Emir of Kano, Alhaji Aminu Ado Bayero, thanked the Benin Monarch for the visit, saying relationship between Kano Emirate and the Kingdom of Benin had been dated back since time immemorial.

He said Kano Emir and Benin Kingdom shared many things in common in terms of rich culture, cosmopolitan and hospitality assuring that this relationship will continue to wax stronger.

Earlier, the Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas told the Emir that the Benin Monarch was in Kano to attend the 36th and 37th combined Convocation ceremonies as well as his investiture as the 4th Chancellor of the University.

36th, 37th Combined Convocation BUK Commences 36th, 37th Staggered Convocation with 8 Faculties

By Nura Garba

Eight faculties were presented for the award of first degrees on Tuesday, 7th February, 2023 as Bayero University, Kano commenced its staggered 36th and 37th combined Convocation ceremonies.

Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas said a total of 5, 648 candidates for the 2018/2019 and 2019/2020 sessions from Faculties of Agriculture, Computing, Engineering, Social Sciences, Communication, Earth and Environmental Sciences, Law and Management Sciences would be conferred with first degrees.

The Vice Chancellor, who presided over the convocation, said within the last two years the University was ranked the best university in Nigeria in terms of international outlook and 4th best University in Nigeria behind University of Ibadan, University of Lagos and Covenant University following the latest 2023 World University Assessment by the Times Higher Education of United Kingdom.

He said the ranking shows that BUK is the best University in the North-West, North-East, South-East and South-South.

The 2018/2019 session had 2,8 07 candidates, while for the 2019/2020 session, a total of 2, 841 candidates were conferred with the award of first degrees for the first day.

Day 2 of BUK's 36th and 37th Convocation: 5, 779 Candidates Conferred with Degrees

By Nura Garba

A total of 5,779 graduands were conferred with first degrees as Bayero University, Kano celebrated its 2nd day of the 36th and 37th combined convocation ceremonies for the 2018/2019 and 2019/2020 sessions on Tuesday, 8th February, 2023.

Deans of five Faculties, Arts and Islamic Studies, Allied Health Sciences, Basic Medical Sciences, Dentistry, as well as School of Continuing Education presented their candidates to the Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas for conferment of the first degrees.

The Vice Chancellor said over the last couple of years, Bayero University has been pursuing vigorously to transform the university from a basically teaching to a research based and transform it from a predominantly Arts/Humanities to Science based, as well as make it an information and communication technology driven institution.

The Vice Chancellor noted that with the university's recent ranking as the best in Nigeria in terms of international outlook, it would not relent in its determination to improve the visibility of the university on the global scene by consistently being visible on the website as well as publishing research work in reputable journals and engaging in more collaboration with individuals and industries at the international level.

He said as part of the management's effort to reach out to corporate organizations and individuals for intervention in various aspects of technological and infrastructural development, the Bank of Industry readily accepted to establish a Technology Hub for skills acquisition in BUK with the aim of promoting entrepreneurship amongst the youth.

CDA Programmes Review: Request for Memos

The Centre for Dryland Agriculture (CDA) reviews its programs and activities every five years to make them more relevant to present times and to the needs of the West and Central Africa (WCA) drylands. The last review was carried out in 2017/18, and another review is due in 2023. Consequently, the Centre has recently:

1. Appointed research theme leaders and inaugurated research themes along which research groups would emerge. The research groups will be conducting cutting-edge translational research that addresses the development needs of the WCA Dry lands. It is envisaged that the research groups will not only produce high-impact innovation and research outputs but also support the postgraduate training activities of the Centre and the University as a whole.
2. Developed a framework for the establishment of a regional agro-innovation and entrepreneurship hub to assist in harnessing ideas and promoting agricultural innovations and entrepreneurship. To this end, the centre is organizing its first “agri-hacking” event in the first quarter of 2023 to support and mentor young innovators.

3. Provided parts of the University with high-speed internet, Learning Management Systems (LMS), access to high-performance computing (HPC), access to databases such as ScienceDirect, ProQuest, Emerald, etc

The CDA is presently reviewing its current curricula and modes of course delivery with the aim of improving the current courses and/or introducing new courses and programs. The Centre solicits creative ideas from the University community, research and industry partners, and the general public to develop impactful multidisciplinary programs that will address the training and research needs of the Drylands of WCA.
